New York City, Feb 28, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Known as “the dentist for kids”, Dr. Bialik has been utilizing a holistic approach towards pediatric dentistry long before there even was a name for it. With a reputation for excellence of care and compassion, he has been in private practice in Brookfield, Connecticut since 1997.

“Children are precious and all children are different. In our office, every child is treated as if they were our own. Our goals are not only to perform dentistry but also to prevent children from becoming afraid of the dentist. Dentistry is different today than it was even 10 years ago. In this day and age, there is no need to be afraid of dentistry. For those children that are already apprehensive, we strive to get them over their fears so that when they grow up they will seek proper dental care” as stated on the dental practice’s website.

After earning his Doctor of Dental Surgery (DDS) degree from the Columbia University College of Dental Medicine in 1994, Dr. Bialik went on to complete his postgraduate training within the Pediatric Dental Residency Program at Brookdale Hospital Medical Center in Brooklyn, New York in 1996, where he served as Chief Resident. “This specialized program of study and hands-on experience prepared me to meet the unique needs of your infants, children and adolescents, including persons with special health care needs” as stated by the dentist, who is licensed to practice in Connecticut, New York, and Massachusetts.

Among his professional affiliations, Dr. Bialik is a member of the American Dental Association, the American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry, the American Academy of Pediatricians, the American Society of Dentistry for Children, the Connecticut Society of Pediatric Dentists, the American Association for Dental Research, the International Association for Dental Research, the Connecticut State Dental Society, and the Greater Danbury Dental Society. He also holds certificates in advanced cardiac life support and basic life support.

Pediatric dentistry is the branch of dentistry dealing with children from birth through adolescence. Pediatric dentists are dedicated to the oral health of children from infancy through the teen years. They have the experience and qualifications to care for a child’s teeth, gums, and mouth throughout the various stages of childhood. Children begin to get their baby teeth during the first 6 months of life.
