

High Beam Global Builds its Business Continuity Plan Amid the Pandemic COVID-19

Gurgaon, Mar 30, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - With the pandemic COVID-19 spreading and posing a threat to every other sector of the market, businesses are planning and strategizing to continue their work. High Beam Global, the market research company is aware of the market going down. And, to make sure the pandemic does not leave us all empty-handed, it has built a business continuity plan to make sure that people continue their work and stand together to face such a challenge.

The team of High Beam Global is enthusiastic as ever to work and provide all the necessary data, information, and insights to its concerned market clients. They are conforming to the necessary precautionary steps that are to be taken. Not just this, the management team of High Beam Global claims to have sanitized the office space (twice a day) and that sanitizers are kept in every cabin, entrance, and gallery of the office.

As the “CEO- Rajat Sahni” of High Beam Global said, “As it is a time where already businesses are thinking twice before working, we are bullish about our proactive measures that are keeping High Beam Global to continue its work for its clients and employees as usual”.

The conclusion of the business plan is to provide the opportunity to the people out there who wish to get the work done and are looking for options as every other corner of the private sector is seeming to fade away. In such time, as concluded by one of the team leaders, “it is better that we carry on as usual and work like a normal day because panicking and stress won’t give any output or result”.

The company has provided their skilled trainees and employees with the necessary resources and every one of them is working remotely from their home desks. The company provides multi-mode Data Collection (both quantitative and qualitative techniques), Survey Programming & Hosting, Data Processing, and Analytics. High Beam Global combines a client-focused approach with robust project management to offer a unique experience to its clients and the work process is being carried smoothly till now, says that “being proactive is the basic necessity that we are holding onto right now but along with that we are also witnessing incessantly the current situation out there, CDC, World Health Organizations, and local government’s decisions and following active rules”.

They along with their administration team have come up with the plan to build a business continuity plan for our clients in this ongoing phase of COVID-19.

A team of leaders to look out for the plan and watch over the workers in every sector to ensure their safety measures are fulfilled. Another team of co-workers has been set to complete their potential tasks for our clients in every situation taking all precautionary steps.

You can completely rely on our business continuity plan and services that are gone through and are of set standards.
