Jahana Rez

New York City, Mar 26, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - Fluent in both English and Bengali, Dr. Reza is a board-certified internist who can be found on staff at Montefiore St. Luke's Cornwall in Newburgh, New York.

Montefiore St. Luke's Cornwall is a not-for-profit hospital dedicated to serving the health care needs of those in the Hudson Valley. In January 2016, St. Luke's Cornwall Hospital partnered with the Montefiore Health System, making MSLC part of the leading organization in the country for population health management. With dedicated staff, modern facilities, and state-of-the-art treatment, the hospital is committed to meeting the needs of the community and continuing to aspire to excellence.

For the purpose of advancing her efforts, Dr. Reza remains a member of the American College of Physicians, the Bangladesh Medical Associates, and the Bangladesh Medical and Dental Council. She is board-certified in internal medicine by the American Board of Internal Medicine, a physician-led, non-profit, independent evaluation organization driven by doctors who want to achieve higher standards for better care in a rapidly changing world.

The doctor's acclaimed career in medicine began in 1996 after she earned her medical degree from Dhaka Medical College and Hospital in Bangladesh. Upon relocating to the United States, she went on to complete her internship in internal medicine at Brookdale Hospital Medical Center in New York, followed by her residency in internal medicine at Kern Medical in California. She also completed an additional residency in internal medicine at Mountainside Hospital in New Jersey.

Internal medicine is the medical specialty dealing with the prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of adult diseases. Physicians specializing in internal medicine are called internists. They manage and prevent common and complex diseases by providing comprehensive care and promoting overall well-being.
