

Jason Paulson Band has mesmerized the audience with the ethereal and serene tune in 'I Can't Understand'

Jason Paulson Band is a magnificent band who has come up with the prolific song 'I Can't Understand'. The song speaks about social distancing with a folk fervor.

New York City, Dec 31, 1969 (Issuewire.com) - The Jason Paulson Band has proved its mettle with songs from the genre of folk, Americana, country and blues. They have shown their immense prowess in the track 'I Can't Understand' that has received phenomenal response from the audience. The members of the band are Jason Paulson in vocals, mandolin and guitars, Nate Burge in drums, Bob Cavalieri in accordion & keys, and vocals with Matt Johnson in "Peach"-bass and guitar, Carolyn Gleason in accordion with Rick Thompson in harmonica. One can have a good time enjoying their music video while enjoying a drink at any bar that has soulful tunes. Through their songs, an interesting picture is drawn whereby they spoke about social distancing. He wants to build an intimate connection with the audience with a swashbuckling dash of fun. The video has been filmed by Jozey with the lead singer in Waconia. The video has been edited by Nate Burge with amazing visual moments. The respective videos of Bob Cavalieri and Carolyn Gleason have been filmed in Eden Prairie and Belle Plain. There is an aura of softness in the song whereby a compelling ambiance is created. The band has also dished out phenomenal songs like 'I'm On The Run', ‘Marlboro’s and Cheap Red Wine’, ‘Beautiful Day’ and ‘Never Catch Me’.

In the music video, ‘I Can’t Understand’ by the Jason Paulson Band the cinematography is stunning. The beautiful resolve in the song is inspiring and expressive that comes with deep vocals. The envelope has been pushed as far as the songwriting goes which has poetic influence making the song take a few forward leaps compared to contemporary music. You can catch a glimpse of the absorbing posts made by the band members on their Facebook profile that will enthrall you.

In the engrossing track by the stupendous band, there is an unwavering passion that is impeccable and breathtaking. The video has gained relevance in the present scenario prevailing in the world. The song has an emotive and soulful nature which is quite attractive for the audience. You will be thrilled to bits on watching the sensational music video and enjoy the track on popular trending platforms like YouTube.

Jason Paulson Band - I Can't Understand

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=AdDivsDcK8o>

Media Contact

Music Promotion Club

info@musicpromotion.club

Source : Jason Paulson Band

See on IssueWire