

The Official Field Manual to SURVIVE the QUARANTINE in the CORONAPOCALYPSE Pandemic - Why Most Small Businesses Will Fail Unless they DECIDE NOW to Embrace the Virtual Workspace

I

Reno, Apr 4, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Is it even possible to survive in a post-Coronavirus era? Following major events shut down: Formula One racing, The NBA, and Vegas closed for the first time ever!

For the first time, ever Las Vegas Closed! Think about it, when Kennedy was assassinated, they had a one-minute pause in playing. ONE MINUTE! For the 35th President of the United States!

Now, they've shut down all these casinos, for who knows how long? That's some serious revenue going missing! This is an unprecedented time.

Now, most people out there are hoarding water, toilet paper, hand sanitizer, face masks, or some other item that will ultimately do them no good in facing the actual virus itself.

In the UK, those over 70 are being quarantined for four months.

In Italy, everyone over 60 is being turned away from the hospitals with a “we hope you get better on your own” card and sent home.

Back all this up and it's easy to say, “Let's hit the pause button and stop everything!”

However, that's not realistic with over 99% of the businesses in the United States alone being small businesses who can't afford such a calamity. Yet this is exactly the thing we are seeing right now.

Perhaps what is needed is a shift in perspective, another way of looking at things.

It is for this reason that a group of entrepreneurs and thought leaders have come together to strategize. This is the time to not only survive the pandemic but to thrive in the very environment that seeks to cripple the current economy.

Embracing the Virtual Economy, business partners John Paul Mendocha and Gabe Bautista have assembled this team for such a time as this.

Why hasn't someone thought of this before? Well, perhaps they have. Only until now, we haven't exactly seen the rise of such a worldwide crisis.

In their timely Kindle eBook, Survive the Quarantine: How to Survive in the Post-Coronavirus Economy, this team has delivered what could literally save your business and quite possibly your financial life.

Utilizing their technological capabilities, their ability to restructure businesses and develop new communications methodologies, they have put this work together in record time.

This seminal work is designed for those who want to quit worrying about the things they can't change and moving into changing what they can by making things happen once again.

This work doesn't ask you to become an expert from the beginning.

Instead, the book gives you step by step instructions and insights that are used every day by this group to communicate and continue to do business worldwide.

Every single idea and concept has been tested and driven through an extensive process.

The temptation to curl up into a ball and hide in a corner and wait until it blows over will just exacerbate your situation in a very negative way.

Survive the Quarantine is an antidote to this irrational behavior. We believe that COVID-19 is a game-changer and that business will never be conducted exactly the same way ever again.

The real question is will you be an early adopter on the front end of this taking advantage of it while it is here today, or will you be a person who in a few years says, “Wow, I wish I would have known it when...”?

Easily accessible and readily available, this field manual is a guide to your business in the fight to survive. Better to have a map than follow pure blind luck!

This beta launch is at a very reasonable .99 cents (US) right now because NO ONE should be without the tools, techniques, tactics and strategies, and the overarching goal of thriving in an economic world where a virus has stopped so many others.

We need to find a way, collectively, to continue to communicate and do business and more importantly, to thrive in a post-coronavirus world.

With the eBook available on Amazon as of Monday, March 23rd, what are you waiting for? Go to SurviveTheQuarantine.com or Amazon.com/SurviveTheQuarantine now to get your limited copy!

Meet John Paul Mendoza

John spent 4 years in Las Vegas learning how to win and discovering how people really are—especially about money. His experiences in remote work for 33 years afforded him the opportunity to be a pioneer in achieving results through technology.

John has helped CEOs and production teams win deals and close more business. Technology companies with a complex sales process are his specialty, but he deals with and helps all kinds of businesses. His analytical approach and intricate formula for success is a power within itself!

For more information - www.survivethequarantine.com

Media Contact

Rize and React Media

TonyC@rizeandreact.com

Source : Rize and React Media

See on IssueWire