

The Music Business School Founder Dominique Blais to be on Panel at RISE Entertainment Convention June 6, 2020

In response to the coronavirus crisis the highly-anticipated RISE Entertainment Convention will be held online and completely free. Dominique Blais will be sharing his music business expertise with attendees.

Montreal, May 12, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - Learning the ins and outs of the business end of the music and entertainment industry can be next to impossible in an efficient way without the right guidance. The Music Business School and its President and Founder Dominique Blais specialize in this important area. In exciting news, The Music Business School recently announced Blais will be appearing on the “Artist Revenue and Grants” panel sharing his wisdom, insight, and experience at Montreal’s RISE Entertainment Convention, June 6th, 2020. Responding to the coronavirus pandemic and local Quebec laws regarding gathering the event will now be held completely online, for free. The enthusiasm surrounding RISE continues to grow.

“The Music Business School was created to support emerging artists in the development of their careers,” commented the clearly passionate Blais. “I am therefore very happy to be able to participate in this event since we are addressing the same people.”

Blais has over three decades experience in business development and education, leaving him with few peers. His work as an educator has won praise worldwide.

Alessia Priolo, RISE Co-founder & President of Sincop8ed Noize Foundation, remarked about Blais’s scheduled appearance at the event, “We are proud to have Dominique Blais on our speakers panel at RISE Entertainment Convention this year, which will be taking place online! Dominique has a vast knowledge of the music business, and will be sharing highly valuable information for anyone in the entertainment industry.”
