

Follow Your Artistic Dreams with Artgence's Unparalleled Guidance and Wisdom

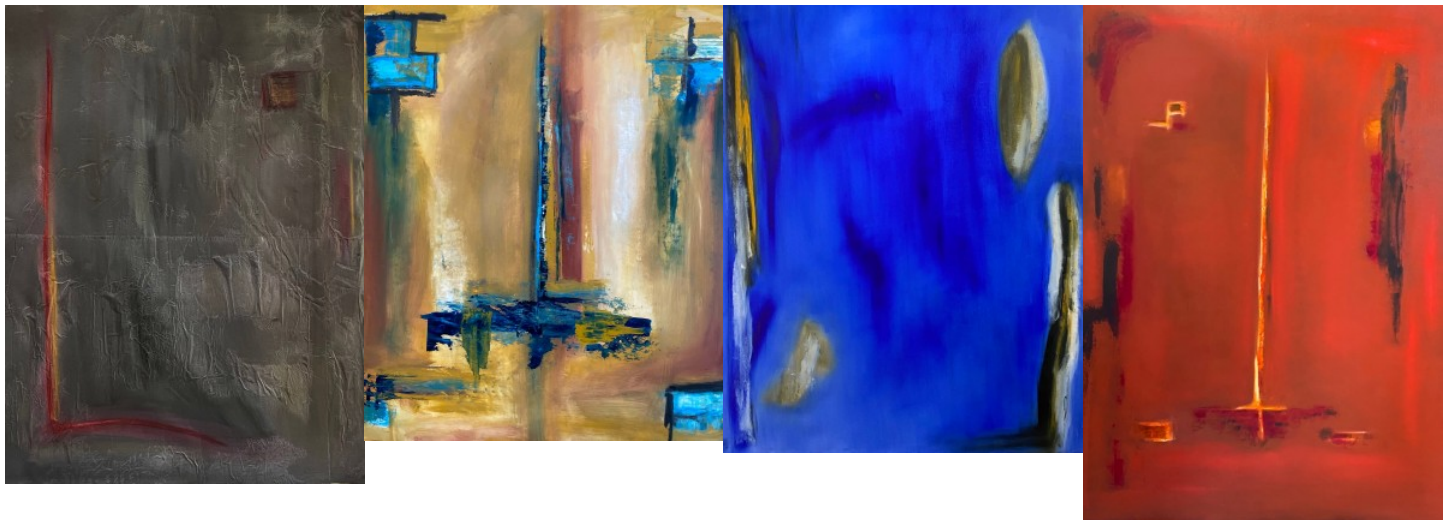

Technology & Art

Ile-de-France, Sep 11, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Artgence is a multi-dimensional consultancy agency that has provided representation and creative pursuits for artists and collectors through their integrated platform of artistic convergence. Founded by Marques Hardin & Kyle Dow, the company has envisioned building long-term relationships through the innovative confluence of art and technology that will open the windows to bigger creative and functional prospects in the world of branding and its development.

Artgence provides services in the scopes of art consultation, buying, and management that have led many areas of art and creativity to collide and grow on the platform. They are constantly expanding their market expertise and wisdom by working with a stream of artists, photographers, and visualizers. In the latest announcement, they have revealed that they are currently working with Pollack Prize winner, Todd Williamson and author and artist, Chris Wilson. Their constant up gradation in the converging area of art and technology has led to various creative collaborations and has allowed the world to experience the evolution of contemporary art in a new light.

Whether you are an artist or just an enthusiast looking for consultation on your purchases, Artgence will make sure that you are guided towards the right direction of your career and your personal fancies.
