

iTradely.com makes it easy to research and pick more winning stocks

Northern Savonia, Jun 6, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - There are currently over 54 million retail traders in the United States actively buying and selling stocks. When it comes to investing in stocks, access to proper research data and institutional grade analysis is a barrier for most non-professional retail investors. Unlike institutional traders, most retail investors do not have access to professional-grade research data, which lead them to pick and buy stocks solely based on rumors or news that they read online.

iTradely is a simple but powerful stock research tool that anyone can use to conduct an institutional grade stock research in minutes. iTradely simplifies the stock research process by implementing professional-grade stock research data in an user-friendly, easy to understand interface for the everyday investors.

Anyone planning to buy a stock can conduct thorough professional-grade research on the target stock in 2 simple clicks by visiting <https://itradely.com/stock-research> and search with either the company name or stock ticker.

iTradely will then generate an institutional grade, easy to understand research report on the stock which includes Analyst's Consensus (Buy or Sell), Price Target, News Sentiment, Social Sentiment, Insider Activity, Earnings estimates, history and surprises. The tool also pulls the relevant news coverage of the stock so you can also read the current news about the company at the same time.

Apart from stock analysis, iTradely also helps investors pick stocks by filtering based on Insider Activity and Analyst Ratings. Investors can instantly find out the stocks Analysts recommending as "Strong Buy".

Stock research is the evaluation of a company, investment sector or the market as a whole. This research is compulsory to determine the future price of an instrument, sector, or market. It can help you evaluate a company and decide whether it's worth adding to your portfolio.

To conduct fundamental research you need to be able to dive deep into the company information and really get to know the strength and weaknesses. iTradely consolidates the necessary company information in a quick, and easy-to-use format.

To be good at anything you need knowledge, ability and the tools to be successful. iTradely provides everything you need to know, before you buy a stock, in one simple easy to understand page, including:

- Analysts Buy, Sell and Hold Ratings.
- Upcoming Earnings and Dividend Dates
- Earnings Estimates and Stock price target
- Quarterly earnings and sales data
- Return on Equity, profit margins, price to earnings, etc.
- Insider Activity
- News, Social and Investor Sentiment

It is important to learn what top institutional analysts are recommending about your stock and check where the price of the stock is expected to go. Financial market data from iTradely will be helpful in determining the health and growth prospects of a company.

Performing research before making an investment is a must. It is only after thorough research that you can make some assumptions into the value and future performance of a company.

So if you're planning to buy a stock, make sure to give iTradely a try. It's 100% free and you don't even need to register to use it.
