

The Electrifying Demise by: James Munson & Joy Munson

THE ELECTRIFYING DEMISE

James Munson
Joy Munson (Co-Author)

Monmouth County, Jun 22, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - The Electrifying Demise is a remarkable story of Mike when his life changes one day when he witnessed a situation involving a grandfather who has hired a pilot to fly his ailing granddaughter to a hospital.

The pilot is too inebriated to fly the plane and Mike overhears his frustration. Mike explains his abilities as a pilot to the grandfather and the decision for Mike to fly the child to a hospital is an on the spot decision.

The many characters in the story are interesting, memorable and some exciting moments evolve in confrontations for Mike along the way. There are romantic moments that happen as well as reverence, politics, hardships, criminal justice and philanthropy on a large scale.

The title of the book is reflected near the end when justice is displayed. Jim was a carpenter, salesman, lay preacher and high school shop teacher. While Joy was employed as a secretary for attorneys; bookkeeper for 1st husband's painting business and mother of their 4 children; Campbell Soup inventory control clerk; and retired from Western Electric (now AT&T) as data processing associate.

Media Contact

Matchstick Literary

mgomez@matchliterary.com

1-888-306-8885

New Jersey, Monmouth County 07701

Source : Matchstick Literary

See on IssueWire

