

CertiProf collaborates with Credly to bring in innovation to the certification programs

NEW PARTNERSHIP ANNOUNCEMENT

Florida, Jul 24, 2020 (issuewire.com) - In order to validate the proficiency and accomplishments of its candidates and help them in realizing their ultimate potential, CertiProf launches a new Digital Certification Badge program in collaboration with Credly's Acclaim platform. With each passing day, the competition is increasing, and organizations are looking to recruit only the best, which has led to individuals seeking to improve their skills. For this very reason, the agency partners with Credly, as Erika Zuluaga, the Executive Board Member believes that through Acclaim they would be able to provide universal coverage for the verification of the digital badges of the candidates. This has renovated the entire approach.

Founded in 2015, CertiProf has been consistently providing world-class services to the candidates for their professional growth. And, now with this partnership, the company will be able to deliver digital and verifiable badges to the members of the community. Gina Gillin, the Managing Director of the company speaks about the benefits that will be brought in due to the collaboration: 'We will start delivering the digital badges in phases and hope that all our programs will deliver a free badge of your achievements to our more than 100,000 certificates worldwide.'

Due to this partnership, the candidates will now be able to acquire a web-enabled version of their certification shared via online platforms and the verification of the certification will get done real-time. Apart from these, the candidates will also be provided with many professional opportunities after improving their skills through the programs offered by CertiProf. At this moment, the company has over 500 training companies and 110,000+ certified professionals across the entire globe, brushing up their skills through agile practices in programs like Scrum, DevOps, Design Thinking, and OKR.
