

“imeetify”- A more simple alternative to existing scheduler brands and calendar applications

imeetify - Your personal assistant and meeting organizer !

San Francisco, Jul 30, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - imeetify (www.imeetify.com) is a novel mobile productivity application available on iOS and Android platforms. Specifically, imeetify is a “first-of-its-kind” quick meeting organizer where users can set up virtual or in-person meetings with one tap connectivity directly from the convenience of their smart phones without requiring an email address or more complex multiple steps.

In addition to the “Quick Meet” function, imeetify released “Speed Share” to expand on the inaugural version of the app so that users are able to share their calendar. The “Speed Share” upgrade takes the app to the next level where users can easily share their calendars with invitees for choosing times slots. This benefit has never been available before on a mobile or handheld electronic device. The recipient can elect to use their mobile number, or alternatively can use a simple weblink to confirm meetings. The app has also been modified for those who have not yet downloaded the app via producing a handy SMS link for non-imeetify users. The process has never been so easy, and underscores imeetify’s original mission to create more seamless and easier user experiences.

According to founder & CEO Mr. Bala Iyer - “Consumers today have multiple applications to make life simpler, so we took the cue and developed a state-of-the-art scheduling app that works on iOS and Android. This is the first application ever to try or even attempt to use mobile numbers for unique calendar sharing and meeting organization features.”

Imeetify also recognizes the tactical shift happening across multiple industries where numerous collaboration tools & platforms are replacing obsolete dependencies on email communications. With this approach, imeetify offers a unique solution and bridges the gap for users who are somewhat averse to complex scheduling applications in the first place.

According to Mr. Iyer, imeetify has an exciting road map lined up with more features that create powerful user experiences and will ultimately change the way meetings are scheduled. The original platform is positioned to pivot and expand in a way that users will gain greater and greater value as the app progresses.

Currently, the basic version of the app is free of charge. The company is planning to launch a paid version with additional features in the coming months.

About imeetify-

New York based imeetify's core philosophy is all about simplicity and the ongoing creation of well optimized applications that meet the demands of evolving consumer technologies. imeetify is leading the way by building on a platform that allows businesses and consumers to harness the power of AI with power packed mobile applications that are simple and easy to use.

Media Contact

imeetify

Melinda@imeetify.com

9196370465

235 West 100th St

Source : imeetify

See on IssueWire