

Lauren Rutherford to star alongside “Hollywood’s Queen” in hit new Comedy show - Students.

London, Jul 10, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - Hailed as the next Inbetweeners, this bold new comedy showcases the trials and tribulations of University life. Filmed in North London, the show has all the ingredients to become a phenomenal success.

Nouveau Media United Kingdom, is to produce the series which is aimed at Netflix audiences in all territories. “Gripping, funny and addictive viewing” says, Peter Wilson CEO of NMUK. “The talent we are working with is some of the best I have witnessed. We have numerous surprises in store for our viewers and that’s all I can say”.

Life is a journey of twists and turns. Good times and bad times. Happy and sad times. But life is always a forward movement. And it all starts at Knob Haven University (KHU) for these five students, each one between 18 - 22 years old who live in London. All are flying the nest to face university head-on, while resisting the impulse to turn back to their parents.

We follow them in their personal and educational lives as they pick up valuable lessons that will prepare them for their future . . . life lessons on being a nobody, coping with workload, student loans, procrastination, all linked to stress and anxiety.

“This show is not a users guide on “Tips for Dealing With the Pressures of University” but rather to explore the common misconceptions people tend to have about university” reveals the shows Executive Producer, Alexander Saunders.

Anticipated Release Date: February 2021 Worldwide
