

Self-development is now social!

Austin, Aug 3, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - Announcing the launch of mproveus.com – the innovative online community devoted to self-development! Wouldn't it be great if there was a community that supported people on their journey towards positive change? No matter how large or small, change is important to them and they are serious about making it happen. Fortunately, there is a place that allows people to state their goals, discuss their journey, and get encouragement all along the way.

Why mproveus? Peer support and mentoring are highly effective in helping people make positive changes in their lives. mproveus brings together people from all over the world who have similar interests in making change and allows us to learn from others who have been there before us.

Mproveus is the first social media site solely devoted to self-improvement.

“I was determined to make positive changes in my life and searched for interactive online communities that could assist me. Sadly, none existed.” Tim Ratliff, co-founder of mproves reflects. Co-founder Kyle Ratliff adds, “An online social media platform is ideal to facilitate a supportive community due to accessibility, on-demand convenience, and peer engagement”.

mproveus is free and runs on PC's, tablets, and mobile devices.

The company is based in Austin, TX.
