

48 hours since launch — hundreds of NFTs, thousands of dollars

The blockchain's newest marketplace for digital items and domain names was launched on the 30th of July

Singapore, Aug 2, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - The blockchain's newest marketplace for digital items and domain names was launched on the 30th of July, Mintable. Mintable is a marketplace to buy, sell, and trade digital items and access their content. Unstoppable Domains, a San Francisco-based company building domains on blockchains, backed by Draper Associates and Boost VC and has received grants from the Ethereum Foundation and the Zilliqa Foundation; are one of the examples of digital content that is often sold and traded for thousands of dollars on Mintable.

$1,022 USD for this domain name

Most of these domains were purchased for much less than what they are going for. An example of how effective trading cryptocurrency domains and non-fungible tokens (NFTs) can be.

Just last week, Picasso's Bull a piece of artwork from the artist Trevor Jones sold for $55,555 USD in auction. The multiple copies that were also made sold for much less, but have been actively traded on the secondary market for quite large sums. Effectively giving the traders large profits as they sell the artwork.

180 of the 324 items listed for sale are <https://unstoppabledomains.com> .ZIL domain names. With the
