This time India and Africa - Professionals and activists come together to highlight the unaddressed global issue of Corporate Bullying. The issue is border-less and is found across the continents. There is a need for anti-bullying policy at workplaces to keep sound mental health of employees. The issue is omnipresent and sometimes HR is unable to sort out problems in the absence of a well defined anti-bullying and anti-lobbying policy. There is a stress build-up which leads to depression, low esteem and withdrawal symptoms. The victims often do not like to seek psychological guidance in order to overcome the bully behavior and it impacts the work efficiency many-folds.
