

Meckiss Facial Cleanser with Bioecolia Balanced Skin Micro-ecology

over the world. In fact, as far back as 1982, Estee Lauder rolled out Advanced Night Repair with probiotics. Thereafter, a large number of niche brands and luxury brands have followed suit. They produced various skincare products including facial cleanser, mask, and cream. Meckiss followed closely and entered the initial market of probiotics daily products. Now it has developed facial cleanser with bioecolia.

People may wonder Meckiss rolled out facial cleanser with bioecolia. Does the product have the same effect as other probiotic products on the market? Here is a brief introduction of probiotics and prebiotics. Probiotics is a kind of active microorganism which is extracted from lactobacillus. Prebiotics are a kind of nutrients, which are the food of probiotics. Probiotics fed with prebiotics can greatly form a barrier on human skin. The barrier can effectively block harmful substances from the outside and balance the micro-ecology on the skin surface, thus maintaining the vitality and elasticity of the skin. Thus, as of today, prebiotics and probiotics have been favored by many skincare brands.

As a niche skincare brand in the UK, Meckiss is committed to delivering the concept of innovative skincare to women loving beauty all over the world. It uses unique technology to extract natural essence from plants and restores skin vitality with plant essence. Meckiss facial cleanser contains prebiotics that provides unique moisturizing ingredients for the skin, Alpha-Glucan Oligosaccharide, which protects and strengthens the fragile skin by external stimulation. Therefore, Meckiss facial cleanser with bioecolia has strengthened not only cleanliness but also the effect of moisturizing and repairing skin. Since the launch of Meckiss facial cleanser with bioecolia, the efficacy of moisturizing and repairing has been widely praised by consumers.
