

Underdog Pop Singer Hailie Rose defies the Conventional Wisdom in her Debut Track ‘Visible’

The fresh vocals of the 14-year-old Iowa lass Hailie Rose grasp the fastidious attention of the music industry as her debut number ‘Visible’ is topping the charts.

Manchester, Aug 11, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - As a young pop singer coming out of a small town in Iowa, Hailie Rose makes her debut record ‘Visible’ about the personal experiences of getting bullied and questioning her about the importance of her presence. Surviving high school is difficult, bullying is one of the reasons why half of the dorky teenagers hate to go to schools. She makes her first recorded song very personal so that people can understand how special her choice is and she wants to be remembered for making songs about the difficult times that most parents don’t know about.

Presented by Hailie Rose Media, her debut single ‘Visible’ is a powerful pop song with outstanding hooks co-written and produced with Ni Music Group. She sings in her delicate voice and mellifluous pop melodies to show the silent fights of the teen girls and boys against a bunch of caddish kids who thinks they are cool untouchables in the school. She talks about the scars and numbness due to living with fear every day to face the awkward challenges to prove that they are timid and weak. The pain and continuous motivation to step out in a world without and forcing on students and ill-treatment is the main flavor of the pop track.

Hailie Rose’s dreams were not restrained in the boundaries of her small town as she decided to fly to Los Angeles to record the first song of her life. Working with the Grammy mixing engineer Tom Wier has enthralled her and taught her many things that she needs to be a great recording artist soon.
