The loss of the Q typically refers to the company being back in good standing with their bankruptcy reorganization plan. Also, keeping a positive edge on the stock as the K-8 filing is supposed to be filed with the SEC sometime tomorrow 9/16/2020.

When a significant event occurs at a publicly traded company, federal law requires the firm to disclose this information to investors in a securities filing known as a Form 8-K. But the firm need not disclose immediately; instead, SEC rules give companies four business days after the event occurs within which to file an 8-K.

Filing a Form 8-K will often impact a company's stock. Which way the stock moves will depend on the nature of the news being disclosed.

Shareholders currently are anticipating a fantastic run for BRTXQ since Auctus recently joined them for help with additional working capital. This information can all be found within the recent case documents on the pacer website.

More information about BRXTQ:

BioRestorative Therapies, Inc. develops therapeutic products and medical therapies using cell and tissue protocols, involving adult (non-embryonic) stem cells. The Company offers human and plant stem cell derived cosmetic and skin care products. Its programs relate to the treatment of disc/spine disease and metabolic disorders and include Disc/Spine Program (brtxDISC) and Metabolic Program (ThermoStem). Its curved needle device (CND) is a needle system with a curved inner cannula to allow access to difficult-to-locate regions for the delivery or removal of fluids and other substances. The CND is intended to deliver stem cells and/or other therapeutic products or material to the interior of a human intervertebral disc, the spine region, or other areas of the body. The device relies on the use of pre-curved nested cannulae that allows the cells or material to be deposited in the posterior and lateral aspects of the disc to which direct access is not possible due to outlying structures.
