

Bitclu Inc Introduce Analytics Tool for Amazon Sellers

We are proudly announcing a tool to Solve Amazon Seller's stock related issues. Amazon Seller Analytics Tool

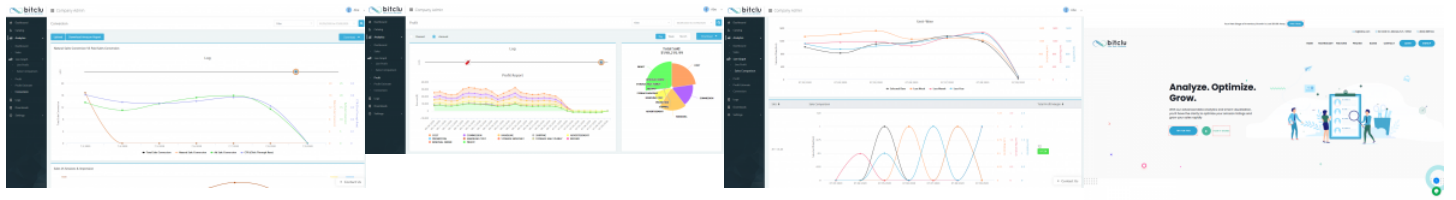

New York City, Sep 24, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - Bitclu is a high-performance Amazon product analytics tool specially designed for Amazon sellers. Our tool offers some unique features such as live graphs to track real-time sales, profit estimation of each product taking into consideration the total cost, commission, handling, shipping, promotion, and profit.

Bitclu offers detailed information on almost all key metrics that can help Amazon sellers make the right business decisions. Our flexible charts provide a quick analysis of the key product indicators. We have included filters that can help you refine the results according to your desired date, year, or month.

Our software broadly offers the following features:

- Dashboard: Dashboard will give you a complete view of your selling operations. Insights such as total cost, total units sold, and total sales on the dashboard will enable you to check your performance monthly, weekly, and yearly.
- Catalog: Catalog will provide you with a clear picture of your products. You can add a single product as an inventory or as a parent in the catalog or multiple products in the XLSX file format.
- Sales: Provides information on the number of units sold and the sale of each product even on hourly bases.
- Profit: Detailed breakdown of additional costs (commission, handling, shipping, promotion) and real-time data profit margin report will help you get the accurate profit.
- Conversion: Comprehensive conversion reports to help you find out whether your sale is coming from organic search or your paid advertising efforts
