Vote. Your Right - Your Responsibility. "It is imperative that every eligible person in this country vote and exercise their right to vote," voiced Yolanda Williams, executive director of Intentional Talk Radio Network.

Intentional Talk Radio Network is aiming to spread the word on the importance of voting in this upcoming election. The election that will change history and launch citizens into a land of hope and prosperity. It is an important mission with one easy step -- assisting to spread the word about this upcoming virtual event you will know the who, what, when, where and why. This is an opportunity to become educated on the measures and information beyond voting just for the president.

In the words of our dearly beloved, Civil Rights icon, Congressman John M. Lewis, it is time for us to make "GOOD TROUBLE" for change. With less than 43 days left until election day, we must stress the importance of registering to vote and using the power of the ballot to bring ("Good Trouble") change to our country, states Yolanda Williams founder of ITRN.

This is the most important election of our lifetime. Let us influence each person who is eligible to vote, to use their right. This right to VOTE is our responsibility and our choice to make the change, added Williams.

About Intentional Talk Radio Network - "We Bring You News and Views that You Can Use"

In 2015, Ken Strauther and Yolanda C. Strauther-Williams started a weekly talk show on the Black Talk Radio Network. This program was designed to address the issues people face in the Black Community and beyond, including poverty, crime, racism, jobs, education and apathy. The network has developed a strong following by bringing positive messages to the community and a variety of programming that is compelling, motivating and stimulating. The Intentional Talk Radio Network is bringing its unique programming to the masses. They carry the tag line - "We're Taking Control of the Narrative in Our Community." After a great start on BTRN and much success, their producers strongly suggested that they branch out on their own and develop their own network brand. ITRN was born with continued success and is still growing.
