

Merger Streamlines Business Capital Placement

Announcement of merger between CapStack West and VX Global improves business capital investment process.

Henderson, Sep 10, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - CapStack West, a 5-year-old community built around investors to anonymously match their portfolio criteria to deal flow, announces their merger with VX Global, an investment services platform. The combined offering delivers streamlined and simplified access to vetted deal flow while at the same time improving the presentation quality, data engagement, document management, and transaction process for investors.

“Our platform has a proven track record of successful transactions between corporations and investors. But what we were missing was the community engagement and diversity of investor types. We wrap the platform in transactional services to support successful investment in a one-stop environment.” Stated John Pappie, the CEO of VX Global.

“The VX Global platform was built for investors from sophisticated private families who add to their portfolios a few times and we also added large private equity firms that fund multiple deals quarterly, meet stringent investment criteria and at the same time keep portfolio companies funded with an eye on exits. We are also adding multiple components such as Venture Capital, accredited investors, and international resources.” Said CEO Pappie.

The proprietary platform develops long term relationships, syndications and other forms of collaboration between investors to maximize returns. Ken Hubbard, CEO of CapStack West, “The VX Global platform gives us the ability to improve our investor’s returns, which is what we continually strive to do for our community members. For example, VX’s platform manages the escrow process and actually allows investors to move funds through the platform.”
