

Motivational Coach Releases Official Song for "Stress Phone" With Emotional Healing

Los Angeles, Sep 7, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - A motivational coach, an author, and an Air Force veteran, Marcus Parker, popularly known as Marcus "M-Positive" Parker, has released the official song of his new emotional healing squeeze toy, "Stress Phone". This song is produced as a perfect complement to "Stress Phone", which was designed by Parker to effectively help people who are passing through pain in their daily lives deal with their daily stress and its emotional trauma.

Using music to emphasize how Stress Phone can be used to perfectly heal and focus the mind, Marcus "M-Positive" Parker uses this song to deliver powerful and emotional lyrics that paint a clear picture of his life's storyline and how failures caused him to create the Stress Phone to motivate, heal and inspire those who are emotionally troubled. The new squeeze toy (Stress Phone) is designed exactly like a real smartphone, with the size of a standard smartphone and can be squeezed, tossed, bent, or crushed to allow people to stay motivated and relieve themselves of their past emotional trauma.

Describing the new product as a secret to emotional healing and while it was designed as a replica of a smart-phone, Parker said: "I figured the best way to present such a library was to connect it to a cool stress toy shaped like a smartphone. This is because smartphones are the key to most people's stress".

The "Stress Phone" also has a digital link to the "Emotional Healing Toolbox" and can be scanned with any smartphone to access the entertaining library of emotional healing videos, books, music, and training classes from the producer, Marcus Parker. Also, this cool, flexible emotional healing squeeze toy, figuratively shows how flexible you need to be in letting go of your past emotional trauma. While the song's video portrays how Parker used the Stress Phone to free himself of his painful past caused by the incident of 9/11, among others. Stress Phone can be used anywhere, anytime and by anyone, especially mothers and teacher who want to heal and free him/herself or help others from all kind of emotional stress. Both the song and the product are affordable and easily accessible.
