

Shrodrick Spikes Debuts Erotic Afro Futurist Short Film with Corresponding Women's Underwear Line

Jonesboro, Sep 2, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Thirty is the newest American afro-futuristic erotic short film and art project written, directed, and produced by American artist and designer Shrodrick Spikes and co-produced by Spelman College Alumna, Diamond Sands. The independent film premieres on August 22, 2020, and marks Spikes' transition from art shows to immersive multimedia art experiences.

Set in the current day 2020, Thirty focuses on the experiences of designer Day Blanco as she spends her thirtieth birthday home alone due to the COVID-19 pandemic and as things take a mysterious turn when she falls asleep. The film stars model and fashion designer Deshanique Blanco and was filmed at the white Haus Gables asymmetrical home in Atlanta's Old Fourth Ward. The home was designed by award-winning architect, Jennifer Bonner.

Spikes offers his thoughts on the Afro-futuristic film and creative house, stating: "Shrodrick Spikes are not only the first Black-owned and operated contemporary creative house-- it changes the way we experience art, design, fashion, and wellness while disrupting the contemporary space and showcasing blackness in nuances that are normally not seen in the mainstream." He adds: "Thirty is made for men and women who have a deep appreciation for things that make them feel seen and appreciate deep thought and authentic artistic experiences."

The film's direction and production were guided out of necessity due to COVID-19, as Spikes couldn't offer patrons a typical art experience at any venue. This led to him pivoting and rethinking an approach to the project that culminated in the erotic short film and accompanying line of luxury women's underwear.

The Shrodrick Spikes Bamboo Cotton Underwear is an additional artistic element to the Thirty film experience. The underwear is being offered for purchase as a limited release in conjunction with the film and is available for purchase for $20. The underwear will come in thong panty and cheeky styles -- with sizes ranging from S-XL available for purchase. To learn more about Shrodrick Spikes Contemporary
