

Terry J. Quintero Moore brings it as SWAG in the movie “Snow Black”

Willow Grove, Sep 10, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Terry J. Quintero Moore, an extraordinary actor, and model brings the thunder with his martial arts moves as the fearless antagonist SWAG in the upcoming film “Snow Black”. Terry is an actor, boxer, personal trainer, and a model and is thrilled to be acting in the film alongside the incredible Ron “The Black Dragon” Van Clief.

Making his debut on television, Terry had originally auditioned for a role in “The Young and the Restless”, a daytime television show. He caught the attention of a reporter from CBS Eyewitness News in Philadelphia, Ms. Alexandra Hoff, who asked Moore to perform in a small role with her. An immediate star was born as Moore used this experience to launch his career in acting and modeling.

Terry’s traffic-stopping good looks propelled him into the world of modeling. Terry has walked for the famous John Blasting Games and on the Runway on Fire in the New York fashion show sponsored by Vera Moore Cosmetic. Women from every nationality stop in their tracks when they get a glimpse of this sexy, charismatic man and are even more intrigued when they learn that he is not only gorgeous but humble as well.

As the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania Light Heavy Weight Celebrity Champion, Terry was the perfect candidate to play SWAG to fight against Jerrod Camden, played by former martial arts champion Ron “The Black Dragon” Van Clief in the film “Snow Black”. This movie was written, produced, and directed by Robert D. Parham. The highly anticipated film “Snow Black” is set to be released on January 21, 2021, and includes an amazing cast of talents and including actress Gloria Hendry as Aunt Sydney.

In his role as badass SWAG, Moore demonstrates through his acting ability how actors can change the world. From a young age, Moore’s grandmother saw his extraordinary gifts and in obedience to her, he began acting in church plays. He fell in love with acting and modeling. He realized that he could bring change to his community, youth, and college students and a new perspective on how actors are viewed by the world. He wants to demonstrate to the acting community and his fellow African Americans that “you can write your own story and change your ending.”

Terry is a graceful, compelling actor who has already played alongside other award-winning actors. In the film “McCanick”, he had the opportunity to meet and work with David Morse. He also had minor roles in “Creed”, “Darkshield”, and “Rewind” in which he had his first leading role. Terry is dedicated to perfecting his craft and to be considered one of the world’s greatest actors at some point in his career.

To watch Terry and the excitement and drama that Parham and the cast and crew have laid out, be sure to watch the trailer for “Snow Black”. Music by Knoc-Turn’Al featuring Tupac can be heard on the soundtrack for the film. Here's the YouTube trailer <https://youtu.be/e58f7DrAM2k>.
