His true-to-life composition has moved the audience and inspired people to come forward and take the step for the future. It is a song about dissipating all the discriminations from the nation and see every human being as flesh and bone. When he was asked about his inspiration for in-depth musicality, he said, "People wonder why as a culture we are so unhappy. You look around and everyone is suffering. Scratch the surface of every human being on the planet and you will find that everyone has tragic events and some trauma."
