Atlanta, Oct 12, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Medical Supply Company Has Donated Over $800,000 to USA Businesses And They're At It Again!!!

Starting today, Safety Life and Health Medical Supply (SLH) will donate $100 worth of personal protective equipment (PPE) to any business in the USA who visits their website to claim the supplies. With the mandating of masks now enforced at a state level, the demand for PPE equipment is skyrocketing. A foreseeable shortage is again on the horizon, forcing retailers to rely on their trusted suppliers to distribute rationed quantities of face coverings and other compliance-based protection to meet public demand.

"The whole mission and vision of SLH, is to 'give back first', and worry about profit later. We have donated, so far over $800,000 worth of PPE … We are doing even more this time: we are donating to every business that signs up, $100.00 in PPE and you don't have to buy anything from us, we want to give it away," said Pelletz, illustrating the business model and its charitable focus.

To claim the $100 in free PPE supplies, go to our site – www.slhmedsupply.com and shop whatever you need.

During checkout use code: "bevyb" then choose your 'business type'. We have everything from masks to gowns to sanitizer, even bouffant caps to booties. We have clear, transparent masks – they are awesome for teachers so students can see their expressions. Our website has streamlined access and B2B pricing on all products.

SLH previously launched a national donation program where healthcare facilities, municipalities, schools and churches receive $75 worth of protective equipment for free. The program was designed to right-size their PPE purchases. "It can be a struggle for smaller organizations to find a supplier that will sell them smaller quantities, that make sense for their staff and for their budget," said Pelletz. "SLH is that company.”
