New York City, Oct 30, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Dr. McFerren, a board-certified dermatologist, is the Medical Director at The Derm Group in Orange, Connecticut. His special clinical interests include medical and procedural dermatology; nail disease and surgery; the use of cosmetic neuromodulators (i.e, botox) and dermal fillers; unique disease presentations in ethnic skin; the treatment of psoriasis using immunomodulatory therapies; and the use of alternative and complementary/botanical therapies.

The Derm Group is the premier destination for all skincare needs. With over 15 convenient locations in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, and Connecticut, it offers innovative, comprehensive solutions to help patients look and feel their best. Whether a patient is interested in cosmetic enhancements or clinical treatments, the providers at The Derm Group offers a combination of diverse specialties and medical backgrounds in order to treat a wide range of skin conditions. They ensure that patients' needs are met with the right expert, every time.

"The Derm Group is devoted to using the latest research and technology available while providing our patients with the same level of expediency and customer service as a primary care physician. Each member of the staff is committed to caring for the total well-being and health of our patients. Our goal is to make your experience with us as positive, helpful and informative as possible" according to their mission statement.

Relating to his education, Dr. McFerren is a graduate of the Weill Medical College of Cornell University and holds a Doctorate degree from the Cornell University Department of Plant Biology. He completed his residency in dermatology at the Yale University School of Medicine, and his training in internal medicine at Kings County Hospital Center in Brooklyn, New York.

Subsequent to his training, he attained board certification in dermatology through the American Board of Dermatology (ABD). The ABD is a voluntary, non-profit, private, autonomous organization formed for the primary purpose of protecting the public interest by establishing and maintaining high standards of training, education, and qualifications of physicians rendering care in dermatology.

A Fellow of the American Academy of Dermatology, Dr. McFerren has held faculty appointments at the Cornell Center for Complementary and Integrative Medicine, Swarthmore College, and Downstate Medical Center. He is currently on the teaching staff at Danbury Hospital.

Due to his unique expertise in both botany and dermatology, he is a frequent national and international lecturer on the beneficial and injurious effects of plants and plant products on the skin. He has previously received the Elle Magazine Genius Award for his contributions to cosmetic dermatology and has written numerous scientific articles and book chapters.

In his current capacity, Dr. McFerren is an active member of the greater New Haven community as a coach for the Northeast Flag Football League. He is also a member of LEAP for Kids Executive Board.

Dermatology is the branch of medicine dealing with the skin, the largest organ of the body; a specialty with both medical and surgical aspects. A dermatologist is a specialist doctor who manages skin diseases and deals with both internal and external causes and some cosmetic concerns involving the skin. Dermatological duties include taking consultations, providing screening tests, and undertaking non-invasive surgical procedures.
