STRENGTH

Los Angeles, Oct 21, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Dis-ease has been the major theme for 2020 and the pandemic seems to have created a global shortage of outlets to maintain one's health - with gyms being closed and fitness equipment companies running out of equipment, this led one entrepreneur to focus solely on providing affordable home fitness equipment to help people stay fit and strong, at a time when they need it the most.

As phones rang off the hook and customers bombarded the small, family-run, local fitness supply company where he worked - and after working six days a week for months with no health insurance coverage, things started to feel unhealthy for Andy LeSavage, one of the founders of ProFIT Strength (Pronounced PROFIT). After getting laid off that is when he noticed the opportunity to help people stay fit and decided to start supplying affordable adjustable dumbbells out of his friends garage during the shutdown. The first order for 12 adjustable dumbbells came in and was gone within 24 hours and sales have been non-stop ever since.
