Florida, Nov 23, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Upcoming hip hop star and recording artist BigJohn is all set to release his forthcoming album, 'Neva Too Late' in January 2021. After a successful run in the hip hop industry and many hits to his name, he is ready to take his musical legacy to a new degree of accomplishment with the new album.

Recording artist John Anthony Zieglar was born in Columbus, Ohio who later changed his stage name to BigJohn. He is also the founder of the production label BigJohn Entertainment that has been instrumental in his growth and exposure as an artist in many ways. He used to be an air conditioning service technician for over 8 years before he pursued his career as a rapper and a hip hop artist. This stands as an inspiration to not just his audiences but also for other upcoming musicians who often shy away from realizing their dreams and aspirations.

Hip hop artist BigJohn hails Plies from big Gates Records as his biggest inspiration. Although he always felt a sense of belongingness with music, it was not until 2010 that he started writing his content. Soon he imbibed his musical style and eccentricity and there has been no looking back since. The upcoming album is set to accumulate and present his insights and wisdom as an individual and as an artist who is ready to accomplish the highest levels of success, popularity, and creative greatness. BigJohn's ability of lyrical and rhythmic symbiosis sits fit with that of the current musical wave allowing him to travel closer to his fans.

BigJohn says that his music is such that is relatable to everyone. His thematic tribute for love and partnership has been reflected in his music many times that deviates greatly from the common issues in hip hop and rap music. Forming an exclusive musical canvas, his songs like 'Can't Nobody' or 'Can't Fill Your Shoes' are personal sagas that touch the hearts of his fans. A vocal and musical delivery like no other, his music is eccentric and often imbibes trains of contemporary pop. The artist himself is fond of experiments as he constantly allows his soundscape to breathe and grow through the years of cultural and creative evolution. He is also a fond guitarist whose canvas is open to all kinds of music. His exposure also indirectly influences his soundscape and makes it stand out in creative glory.

The upcoming album 'Neva Too Late' is set to add another quote of creative excellence to his work. His other album, 'We Goin Live' also created a lot of buzz and audience engagement. He has always acknowledged the support of his audience that helped him stay humble and grounded during the course of his journey as an artist. He is also a family man who is always maintaining the work-life balance with the right ingredients. All his songs are textured with emotional themes and musical subtleties that help his audiences to relate to them on a deeper level of empathy and understanding.

The legacy of hip hop has seen many artists come forward with his individualism and creative expressions. BigJohn's music is inspired by R&B styled rap bars and a vocal intensity that will flatter anybody, anywhere. 'Can't Nobody' is definitely one of the biggest hits of his career. His sense of arrangement and production is commendable as all his projects brim with the creative assurance of good melodic editing. The artist is currently based out of Deland, Florida, and is looking forward to some exciting new projects in the next year.

BigJohn is rapidly making a passage through the industry with his honesty, modesty, and creative straightforwardness. Mark your dates for 'Neva Too Late' in January and get ready to groove in an all-new musical arrangement. The artist himself is curating the new album that will contain some of his best works to date. Hip hop and rap essentials are being defined in a new light with this album that is set to indulge the global audience into an engaging stream of lyrical and rhythmic prognosis. Stay tuned to his newest release and follow his work on Spotify, Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram for new updates.
