

Nir Nakav drops his highly anticipated metal album "The Nir-Death Experiment" this Thanksgiving

Tel Aviv, Nov 7, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - The world-famous Israeli drummer, Nir Nakav is back to business with his exceptional musical endeavors presented in his upcoming release titled "The Nir-Death Experiment". This solo project album is releasing digitally on 26th November 2020, on all major streaming platforms. The brilliant music-maker has already released three singles that caught the attention of over 40k monthly listeners on Spotify: 'Heartbeat' featuring Keyboard Wizard Derek Sherinian and Bassist Gustaf Hielm (ex-Meshuggah), 'Sacrifice and Bliss' featuring Bass Guru Steve Di Giorgio (Testament) and guitarist Andy La Rocque (King Diamond), and 'Hostis Humani Generis'. The 11 songs release can be seen as the soundtrack of the worst two years of his life that has been a whirlwind of mental breakdown and despair. The aggressive vocal presentation breathes life into the melancholic yet empowering lyrical arrangement of the songs with impeccable precision.

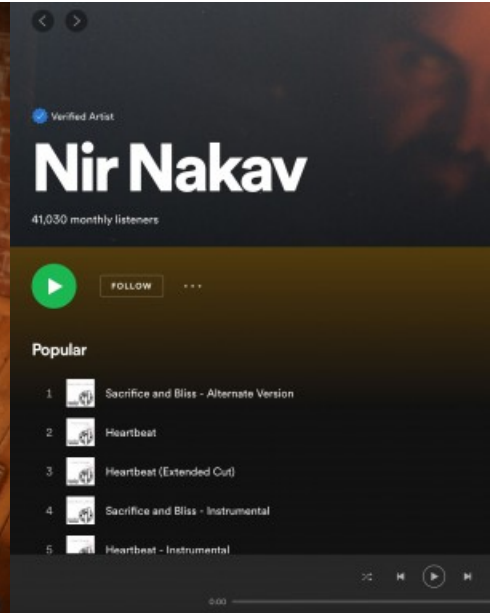

The established musician is no stranger to the world of metal music being a prominent figure in the global metal community for 20 years. Since 1998, the brilliant instrumental genius has been the drummer in the famous metal band Salem. He is also the head of the drums department in Rimon School of Jazz and Contemporary Music in Israel. Nir also authored the educational textbook for drummers, "Battle Hymns". The graduate of the MI college in Hollywood has captivated the world with his unbound creative artistry that has given birth to countless extraordinary metal numbers in the industry. Nir can be heard these days playing the drums for the Doom Metal outfit "Tomorrow's Rain" (AOP Records, Germany). His profound musical insight has helped him form a unique rendition of the genre that is a blend of reminiscent of the past and the enticing resonance of the present that brims with hope and inspiration.

His painful personal experience has fuelled his passion to craft something unique and inimitable beyond imagination. His wife of 21 years parting her ways with him had a huge impact on his mental state and creative prospect. He did not let this unfortunate event to suppress his artistic abilities rather he weaponized the pain to intensify his provoking metal numbers both rhythmically and lyrically. The 48-year-old brave and prolific drummer devoted a total of seven months without a break to music-making that resulted in the formation of the most exuberant and heart-rending compositions of this year. The destructive instrumentation blended with the equally uncompromising vocal presentation creates an ambiance of pure acoustic bliss.

The album "The Nir-Death Experiment" features an international cast of metal alumni including Andy La Rocque (King Diamond), Derek Sherinian, Steve Di Giorgio (Testament), James Murphy (Death), Yossi Fine (David Bowie), Noa Gruman (Scardust) Yotam Avni (Pray for Nothing), Gustaf Hielm (Pain of Salvation) and One Man Tribe's Ben Aylon. The album paints a vivid picture of his pain and suffering through the biggest heartbreak in his life. The maddening melodies and the therapeutic lyrical illustration take the audience through an epic journey that leads to his salvation powered by the means of music.
