Love Pray Peace Project - LP3

Philadelphia, Nov 9, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Driven by the goal to provide a compassionate veteran-centered retirement and living community that will provide exposure to veterans and services through education, empowerment and housing services, Krissi Judd founded the LP3 (Love Pray Peace Project) in 2014.

Founder

Krissi worked to serve the needs of veterans and first responders for over a decade at the Veteran's Administration when she observed that there were some huge gaps in the services she was able to provide.

In many cases, veterans were slipping through these gaps, resulting in great loss to not only their quality of life, but their life itself. This played out time and time again.

Krissi attempted to address these within "the system" but, time after time, her inquiries were not addressed. Finally, in 2014, she decided that the only way to help fill these gaps was to do it herself, and LP3 (Love–Pray–Peace–Project) was born.

Services

LP3 helps veterans and their families fight to ensure they receive each and every benefit they deserve.

Since 2015, LP3 has partnered with many different organizations to serve veterans in a number of capacities. Most notably, LP3 has partnered with NewCourtland Senior Services to house homeless and near homeless veterans. Together, both organizations provide veterans with social services and VA resources to assist them in obtaining the best quality of life possible. Since the Spring of 2019, NewCourtland and LP3 have provided affordable housing for 18 homeless veterans!

Just this year, the organization has been greatly expanding these efforts, providing veteran communities specifically designed for the needs of our veterans and their families.
