Atlanta, Dec 27, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - Singer, songwriter, and actor J Young MDK plans to release his third album of 2020, a collection of songs from a variety of musical genres at the end of the year.

The album is called “White,” and it joins “Black” and “Aqua” which he released on the same day in November.

J Young MDK, the performing name of Jermaine Carter, is also planning on regular releases of every track on the albums on all main streaming music channels including Spotify, SoundCloud, YouTube, Apple Music and more. His plan is to release one new song every week, in an ambitious campaign he calls “50Songs50Weeks.”

“White” includes a selection of tracks that blend pop, alternative, R&B, rap and other styles. Each previous album had a specific musical style: “Aqua” is primarily R&B and “Black” is primarily hip-hop.

“There’s a little bit of something in there for everyone,” he said. “All things are possible, even in a national pandemic.”

With “White,” J Young MDK hopes to provide listeners with the conclusion of a wonderful trilogy of music.

His music channels have already led to over 1 million downloads and more than 500,00 subscribers.

Fans of J Young MDK can also see him in a few unexpected places this season.

After being diagnosed with Type 1 diabetes, the American Diabetes Association declared him an official Ambassador. With this role, he’s making the effort to educate others about the health condition and the importance of staying healthy and taking good care of your body.

Along with being a success in the music world, he also has the heart of a creative entrepreneur. He’s the CEO of full-service management, marketing, and entertainment firm called “Before I Go Hollywood”.

J Young MDK also can be seen on Netflix in a new original holiday movie, “The App That Stole Christmas” a heartwarming story about the developers of a popular app who realize that it takes away people’s Christmas spirit.

In 2021, he said fans should expect more exciting film, TV, and music projects.
