

Harrisco enters into partnership with ReviewerCredits, a platform for rewarding peer reviewers

In December 8...agreed to cooperate in global academic paper peer review

Seoul, Dec 18, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - Harrisco (en.harrisco.net), a professional academic editing and translation service provider entered into a cooperation agreement with ReviewerCredits(www.reviewercredits.com) in Italy, a platform to certify, measure, and reward the activity of scientists as peer reviewers.

With this partnership, Harrisco can use the services of ReviewerCredits for SCI paper submission, and ReviewerCredits will apply Harrisco's academic editing and translation service on its own platform.

This partnership is expected to generate significant synergy as Harrisco holds core competencies in academic editing and translation and ReviewerCredits has strength in rewarding the performance of peer reviewers.

In particular, domestic researchers who have difficulties in submitting papers to SCI journals can get easy access to the services of ReviewerCredits through this partnership.

ReviewerCredits operates a platform for peer reviewer reward services in which researchers can freely participate with regard to 23,000 journals worldwide. Researchers who participate in the platform as peer reviewers are rewarded with credits according to their review performances, and journals can secure a rich pool of peer reviewers among researchers worldwide.
