

New Streaming Channel Features Off-Beat Documentaries and Reality TV

Hollywood, Dec 31, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Videoteur Distribution is launching The Docsploitation Channel, a new video streaming service specializing in offbeat documentaries and reality TV programming.

"We need more unconventional streaming outlets," says Docsploitation CEO Kelly Hughes. "In a media landscape dominated by Netflix and Amazon, it's important to provide alternatives."

The Docsploitation Channel currently features exclusive content such as the documentary Spanky Was A Punk Rocker and is poised to expand substantially in 2021 with unscripted series and reality-based films.

"We will be adding at least twelve new titles per month this year," says Hughes. "Niche markets are the future. We want to serve those audiences that crave non-mainstream programming."
