Elucidating its role in the eCommerce space, Yash Jain and Rajeev Pratap, the co-founders of NimbusPost, said in a joint statement, "eCommerce has apparently become a mainstream industry in the last five years. While eCommerce sellers have absolute control over setting up a business, managing inventory, warehouse, etc., on their own, they can't do much when it comes to delivering the orders. They have to trust a third-party shipping partner to get their job done."

Elaborating on the issues that come across while associating with third-party delivery partners, Yash stated, "eCommerce sellers have to face several shipping hassles when they connect with third-party shipping platforms; delayed deliveries, fake delivery remarks, delayed COD payment remittance, tracking issues being the most common ones." Offering a quick solution to such troubles in the eCommerce shipment industry, Rajeev continued, "Since an eCommerce seller's brand value mainly depends on how happy his customers are, he can't leave the fate of his business in some incompetent courier company's hands. We offer an advanced tech-enabled platform where the eCommerce sellers meet the country's best courier partners with the delivery network spread across 27000+ pin codes. We are committed to 100% customer satisfaction for our eCommerce sellers via NimbusPost to ensure they don't lose out on business in any season. Whether the eCommerce sellers have small or big deliveries to make, they can always compare and choose which courier partner is best for them."

Talking about the achievements of the latest eCommerce logistics brand, the Co-Founders of the company said, "Having served more than 10000 clients across the country, and registering over 2 Million transactions every day, we aim to grow even higher and push our limits each day."
