

Personal Protection: Now or Never

Taking advantage of proper classroom training during a stalemate political time

Palm Beach, Dec 4, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - During a conflicted political climate, more people are taking advantage of concealed weapons permitting and personal protection classes now more than ever before. Fears of heavy gun restrictions and new rules and regulations are prompting more people to sign up for classes now. As the ongoing process for the next president still resides “up in the air”, many people are finding it prudent to take these classes now and get the knowledge-base to protect themselves and their loved ones.

Down in South Florida, Treasure Coast Firearms Training has been busier than ever before. This company is offering beginner/first-time shooters the opportunity to obtain their qualifications for their concealed carry weapons permit, all the way to the advanced shooter who is looking to work on his/her skills to take it to the next level. This comprehensive training company has been considered the #1 NRA facility in the South Florida area for quite some time. On their website, they share three predominant classes (which are their most popular), but they have a multitude of other classes available depending upon experience, skill sets and request. All a person needs to do is fill out the “contact us” card on the homepage and a certified NRA instructor will contact them at the earliest possible convenience for a free consultation and answer any questions that they have.

For first-time shooters, a normal day consists of certain mandatory hours in the classroom understanding the fundamentals, knowledge and coursework that is required. A break for lunch and then out to the course for demonstration and further understanding. Being in South Florida during this time of year, the weather is incredible and refreshing as each person is surrounded by like-minded individuals that can build relationships and good camaraderie for not only personal protection but also a hobby, sport and passion. For individuals that have already gone through a concealed carry weapons class, here is a list of additional classes that they also offer:
