

Private Security Guards Enforce Safety Rules At Arizona Holiday Parties

Local agencies have the right to visit an event, no matter the size, and shut it down and hand out fines if the event is violating health policies.

Phoenix, Dec 17, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Arizona business owners and public event organizers who plan to host holiday gatherings should consider hiring security guards experienced in COVID-19 health protocols to avoid violating state, county or city code regulations and ensure guests are safe, says Access Control Security (ACS), a security guard company serving counties throughout Arizona.

According to recent Arizona guidelines, before holding gatherings of 50 or more people, organizers must first receive approval from local jurisdictions after submitting mitigation plans that meet CDC recommendations.

"Local agencies have the right to visit an event, no matter the size, and shut it down and hand out fines if the event is violating health policies," says Reza Jalala, ACS director of security and operations. "With security guards checking temperatures at the door and enforcing social distancing and other mandated requirements, event organizers have an added layer of compliance practices in place."

Security guard companies were quick to provide COVID-19 safety training to their guards when the outbreak began in March. "ACS and other guard companies knew immediately that there would be a need for additional personnel to safeguard the public," says Jalala. "The need has never been greater as the number of infections has skyrocketed."

ACS has over 25 years of experience protecting property and people. It maintains $10 million in liability coverage and has earned an A+ rating from the Better Business Bureau.
