

Star On The Rise: Ramiah Creates Sensation in Music Arena

Jacksonville, Dec 15, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Has the era of elite songwriters finally come to an end? Baby Face, Stevie Wonder, Smokey Robinson. All respective legendary classic makers in their time. But in today's world, it is sad to see that the stimulus behind writing a song is money and industry standards. But there is one young artist that just may have the potential to align herself with history's greatest songwriting pioneers.

Ramiah Elise Herring, or better known by her stage name Ramiah, is an artist making noise in Jacksonville, FL. Growing up with a musically inclined mother and a father who was also an established artist in his time, Ramiah was always close to music. But what has fans drooling over the young star is not her anointed singing alone. Ramiah is an elite songwriter, a rare title among artists in the music world. Her ability to conjure unexpected and oftentimes mesmerizing harmonies can only be described as a gift from God himself. Paired with her selective lyricism and angelic vocals, Ramiah has the potential to become one of the most decorated and respected artists this generation has ever seen.

The inspiration behind her perfectionistic sound actually stems from the doubt she received throughout her high school and college years. Once deemed only a “surface-level” singer and nothing more, she set out to prove to the world what she already confirmed long ago, that she was destined for greatness. So while the fires of the legendary songwriters may be coming to an end, Ramiah is amber of hope that is quickly sparking a new flame for the music world.

Ramiah released her first hit single, Sane in early 2020, followed by her acclaimed EP, For Love shortly after.
