

The Best-Kept Secret In The Software World Announces Another New Feature

San Francisco, Dec 15, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Trisk, the leading edge SaaS company that allows subject-matter experts to streamline communication, compliance, and data collection, is at it again.

Known for its relentless focus on improving and adding new features, Trisk has launched a document delivery function that sets out to make contract work easier.

The new feature allows subject-matter experts to upload a contract then target which users with whom to interact. This interaction can be individualized or the same for all users.

Now users can highlight sections of documents, add comments, and ask questions targeted to other users. Each user can interact with the document as they need.

Trisk has applied its proven communication experience from its revolutionary data collection process to the document delivery, review, and approval process.

This allows Trisk users to work with contracts and documents safely, securely, and easily.

About The Company

Trisk is a no-code software that allows Subject Matter Experts to interact with Clients in real-time to streamline data collection and compliance with easy automation and 100% security.
