With the current state of affairs, the safe and swift courier delivery of medical equipment has never been more important. No one understands this better than the Founder and CEO of WGS Winston Ezech took an interest in blood courier delivery while working as an intern in an operating theatre. He said: “Some instruments, such as the endoscopy sets used for laparoscopic surgeries are extremely fragile. These sets were often transported to the manufacturers for servicing by courier companies but sometimes they got damaged or were delivered late. This usually delayed surgeries and daily operations. Understanding the importance and the need for handling these instruments with care motivated me to start my medical equipment delivery business. It was also very important to me that to secure boarded vans and the right insurances to enable safe and timely delivery of our customers' cargo.

But it's not just medical equipment delivery and blood courier services, WGS also offers same-day courier delivery, for solicitors, architects, business parks, and other businesses that require same-day car parts delivery, furniture delivery, or documents delivery. The company also offers multi-collection and drops for businesses that want to save time and money.

To get started, customers are required to provide their address, the recipient's address and then choose a suitable vehicle for their car parts delivery or furniture delivery to generate a quote, which is valid for 7 days. They can then accept the quote to initiate the same day courier delivery. For further information or to engage WGS Same Day Courier Service, visit: <https://wgssamedaycourier.co.uk>
