Intelligent Diva is releasing a musical message called No Justice

Intelligent Diva has definitely set the bars high with her new single No Justice

NO JUSTICE
1/20/21

Jacksonville, Jan 18, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - Intelligent Diva definitely does not disappoint us when she releases new music. This song is different from her previous releases. Previously she has told us about how her music talks about relationships and how to keep relationships spicy. This time she took a different approach and chose to release a song about police brutality called No Justice. The song starts out with an electric guitar which is an added twist to a hip-hop song. Then you hear the question that we all want to ask sometimes which is Why? Is there no Justice? Then she launches into her fierce delivery of rhymes about being fed up with brutality.

We caught up with the artist to discuss with her how did she come up with the delivery of this song. The artist told us through research and experience. In her words, everyone somewhere has dealt with some type of abuse verbal or physical abuse. We often don't know the triggers of everyone and when we don't know these triggers it can result in fight response. After seeing the videos of bystanders who have witnessed police brutality. Seeing the videos on social media, and watching the news, and the actions of these offices during these events. Even reading the updates on the coverage on the cases, the events we see clearly spell out to the world that our justice system has everything they need to prosecute someone to their fullest potential. However, when this happens the question is Why? How did they come up with this outcome where we can see the officers have committed a crime. But, justice was not served. When we see the footage in several police-involved police brutality cases, we didn't see a threat that should result in force. The artist stated she wrote the song last year and planned to release it in 2020. But, she decided to hold on to the release and share it with the world on inauguration day.

The artist says she hopes to see changes in the days ahead. Something has to change. Today, civilians are indicted in at least 90% of the cases involving murder, while only 1% of police officers are indicted for the same charge, yet a civilian lost their life by their on-duty actions. The artist hopes the song is successful, and that everyone enjoys it. She doesn't want to be placed in the inbox when it comes to her music. This song definitely steps outside of the box. Great Job Intelligent Diva!
