The release of "You Above All" follows the unstoppable success of recent singles "Your Love is Enough" and "This Will Always Be My Town", both garnering award-winning recognitions. An extensive run of interviews and airing details will now follow this song release.

"This song means so much to me, it has been an extraordinary journey. The co-writers breathed so much life into every word they penned, and for me, it simply is that... Life. The life God gave us all. He is above all to watch us when we fall and celebrate our victories! I am so blessed to do this collaboration with Ava, what a gift," said Kathryn Shipley.

Kathryn Shipley, also known as "KShip" is a true artist as she creates from her heart and navigates back and forth between the country music and Christian contemporary genres. With many notable awards under her belt since 2017, she is one of the fastest-growing independent artists in her respective genres. Kathryn recently was Blessed with a double win at the 6th Annual Josie Music Awards in Pigeon Forge, Tennessee - now having been nominated and won the last 4 years. She won for Music Video of the Year (female category) for her song "This Will Always Be My Town" and Song of the Year with "Your Love is Enough." Kathryn released a new Christmas song on November 2nd, 2020 titled, "Oh What a King" written by Nashville songwriters, multi-award winner Corey Lee Barker and Tery Wayne. Kathryn traveled to Nashville in December, collaborating with fellow Josie Music Award winner Ava Paige to record this current single release.

You Above All songwriters Mary Haller, Michaela Clarke, Ava Paige, and Riley Bria. All proceeds from this single will be donated to Ava's Army.

Kathryn's tireless energy, positivity, and faith are never going to allow her to settle for anything less than reaching for strength from above. In 2021 watch Kathryn meets all her goals and keep reaching higher still. See the full list of upcoming dates and news online at <http://www.kshipmusic.com>.
