

London Web Fest Announces December Award Winners & Launches Industry Q&A Panels

London, Jan 12, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - London Web Fest Announces December Award Winners & Launches Industry Q&A Panels

The London International Web & Short Films Festival is an international online film festival celebrating everything short.

Each month they invite guest judges to review submissions; from award-winning actors to directors and producers. LWF exists to have your short films and series critiqued by professionals working in all aspects of the filmmaking industry.

The festival culminates with a Live Screening and awards event in the heart of London's Tottenham court road, showcasing the year's monthly winners.

In addition to the festival, they have begun monthly international industry panels from their 'Official Selections'. Last month saw their first two Q&A's 'Life Both Sides Of The Lens' chatting with Producers and Directors who also perform in their own work. January's panel sees Hollywood sound designer and guest judge, Phil Lee, talk with invited guests.

"Because the past year has found everyone stuck indoors, we wanted to find a way for filmmakers and performers to still communicate, get their work out there and give insights to other creators whilst in lockdown."* - Saul Marron, Festival Director
