The new generation of filmmakers

Los Angeles, Jan 6, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - These days you can see so many names in the film industry. New talents are coming and the old legends retiring. Some of these newcomers can stay but most of them will disappear in a matter of time. But among those names, there is a new star. A young film director who can absolutely become one of those filmmakers who can make memories for a generation. Qmars Mootab is a film director cinematographer and editor who made three astonishing films including short documentary and feature. Among those artworks, The Silent Pasture of Sparrows is a different story. The film is a short 20 min single shot and in terms of cinematography is a tough challenge. Why? Because the DP-Qmars Mootab himself- using a long lens with very short DOF (Depth of Field) which means he hadn't enough space to shake even a little. According to that, the outcome is absolutely wonderful. The film got lots of attention and participate and screened in more than 70 countries around the world. we will hear more about this gifted film director soon.
