Ya'aqov Yasharal is a hip hop singer and songwriter

Lihue, Jan 17, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - Yaaqov Yasharal, also known as James Mervin Francois III (born December 20, 1996) is an American hip hop singer-songwriter and composer from New Orleans, Louisiana. He has released his debut album Apostate in February 2020, which includes the songs Up In Flames, My Idols Been Dead, Dark Spring, and Portrayed Me.

Early Life

Yasharal was born in New Orleans in 1996 and has been playing music since he was twelve years old. Some music genres that inspired him include gangsta rap, heavy metal, and classical music.[1] It was around this age that he picked up the piano and started to play the instrument. The singer says "My mom, my dad, my cousin, have supported me in music. I grew up in a jazz town, New Orleans, and I found many musicians who inspired me." His musical inspirations include Big Sean, Kid Cudi, and Mozart.

Music Career

Committed to following his passion, Yaaqov Yasharal etched a name for himself in a city known for its strong association with jazz music. His voice and music are uniqueYasharal have been placing his music on music streaming platforms and his own, gaining more and more listeners because his music represents himself as a singer and songwriter.

Media Contact

JAMES MERVIN FRANCOIS,III

jamesmerviniii@icloud.com

Source : JAMES MERVIN FRANCOIS,III

See on IssueWire