Delhi, Jan 8, 2021 (IssueWire.com) - Zeyan Shafiq is a Young Indian entrepreneur. Talking about his academic life, Zeyan Shafiq was born on 21 July 2002 in district Anantnag of Jammu And Kashmir, India. He has received his early education from Radiant Public School a private school in Anantnag, where he completed his matriculation. He completed his senior secondary from International School Rajouri J&K. Zeyan Shafiq is currently doing Bachelor's in computer science engineering from ITS College Of Engineering, Greater Noida.

On 26 April 2016, it was announced that authorities in Kashmir had announced a one-month-long ban on 22 social media services. These included the widely popular WhatsApp, Facebook, and even Twitter. The reason given was that these services were being misused by “anti-government elements”. However, “anti-government elements” weren't the only ones affected. Everyone in Kashmir was. Zeyan Shafiq launched KashBook a Social Media platform that was developed by him when he was just 16 years old to tackle the social media ban in Kashmir.

He in 2019 launched a music label named Stalwart Music factory This music factory focused on uplifting young Kashmiri musicians and to promote artists specifically from Kashmir, This music label has produced some very successful tracks to date.

Zeyan Shafiq launched his own Esports Organisation named Stalwart Esports in Jan 2020. Stalwart Esports is a professional Esports organization, headquartered in India. The organization has scaled up in a very short time to become the most successful Esports organization in the country. With a vision to boost the Esports ecosystem and to uplift talents, Stalwart Esports has structured teams in PUBGM, FreeFire, CODM, Clash Royale, PES. Stalwart Esports became one of India's premier esports organization in a short span of time, this organization focused on uplifting and curating gamers from India and participating in competitive gaming, he later moved overseas by introducing and collaborating with gamers from south Asian countries) After the massive success of Stalwart Esports, he started Stalwart Events(An Esports Event management organization that focused on hosting esports/competitive gaming tournaments in India and globally)

Zeyan Shafiq is keenly interested in cryptocurrencies and blockchain technology, he has been investing in cryptocurrencies since 2016.

He has invested in various startups as well and is keenly interested in helping people start their own startups. Even though coming from a disputed area he has been scaling new heights every day, his parents have been supporting him since his childhood and he always credits his success to his parents only. He is an inspiration to all those who have been trying to something of their own. He believes in “Skills Make Money, Money Makes Money”.

He is currently operating all of his startups from Delhi only but spends most of his time with his family in Kashmir. He is the only Kashmiri entrepreneur to have been featured in all major national and international news portals.
