The Monetary Protestant is a project to promote the awareness that 'we are all monetary protestants now'. From the author of 'Bitcoin: A Revolutionary Investment', Thomas Kuhn has started a new online movement to spread awareness. The phrase "monetary protestant" refers to a comment by then-President Richard Nixon 'We are all Keynesians now' after removing the U.S. dollar gold hedge in 1971 and embracing Keynesian economics. As well as it is a reference to Richard Nixon's quote, the statement 'we are all monetary protestants now' also refers to the date and implication of the release of Bitcoin's whitepaper. Released on October 31st, the same day that Martin Luther pinned his 'ninety-five theses' to the door of Castle Church to launch the protestant revolution, it is considered that Satoshi Nakamoto, the writer of the Bitcoin whitepaper gives the same notice as Martin Luther.

About the Author: Thomas Kuhn

With a background in financial markets and has completed the Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) program, Thomas has positioned himself to act as a translator for Bitcoin and cryptocurrencies to traditional finance while working for the Mine Digital cryptocurrency exchange.

Now Thomas and his project "The Monetary Protestant" has released a series of digital collectibles partnering with the artist B4MBLE. These digital collectibles (NFTs) are released exclusively on Mintable.app, one of the leading marketplaces for digital collectibles on the blockchain.
