Ontario, Toronto, Feb 2, 2021 (IssueWire.com) - Hip hop has emerged from the underground triumphantly to take its place in popular culture's mainstream. Hip hop's widespread reach extends to TV, film, advertisement, social & print media, etc. The movement now stands as a multimillion-dollar organization and a powerful cultural power that continues to develop, although it has taken almost twenty years to achieve this degree of mass visibility. One such company that shares vast knowledge about the hip hop industry collaborates with major record labels, and offers affordable promotions to its clients is Homepageco TV.

The company's CEO is a young, 21-year-old independent entrepreneur born in Iraq and based in Toronto. He runs this as his full-time business and is inclined towards sports, music, games, and of course, the hip hop industry. This company's tale has been a roller coaster, their first account was created in 2015 on Instagram, which sadly was hacked in 2017 with almost 132k followers. But this downturn did not stop the company from making a big return. They soon started their new Instagram account, which gradually gained public interest and expanded with more engagement exponentially. With over 159k followers and a stronger interaction rate, their current page (@homepagecotv) has evolved into a larger platform.
