Haya Freitekh was making a great living as a brand manager for some of the best-known companies in the world, but Haya wasn't really enjoying life. "I was in a very stressful corporate job, so I decided to walk away and take some time out to consider my options,” Freitekh says. “I discovered real estate during that sabbatical. I was initially attracted to the industry as an investor but soon realized that I could live my best life as a full-time Realtor.”

Having always admired beautiful spaces and decor and with an astute eye for marketing and content creation, Haya Freitekh has created a refreshing real estate experience like no other. “I love how an interior’s design possesses the power to instantly transform your mood and mind,” she says.

Before deciding to pursue her dream in real estate, Freitekh was an event that was a celebrity brand manager. “I love getting to know people on a more personal level,” she says. “Whether it is a first-time homeowner who needs my guidance or a seller who needs help getting top dollar for their listing, every client is so darn special to me.”

From 2018 to 2020 her team was ranked No. 1 in its market center. “As a team of amazing women, we strive to create a difference in everyone’s world,” she says. “We want to help change lives and build communities.”

Freitekh mixes old-school real estate techniques like open houses with new technology like video walk-throughs and property experience stories. “I love taking people on a journey through each listing via social media,” she says. “We have had wonderful success with staying in front of consumers by being everywhere they are!”

On the personal front, she made her own homeowner dreams come true when she purchased an amazing house in Ballantyne and convert it into a stunning home. “I have been hard at work with my team turning this Ballatnye House into the picture-perfect HGTV casa,” she says. “It has been really special.”

An animal advocate, Freitekh donates a portion of her team’s commissions from every closing to a variety of animal rescue organizations and shelters.
