Illinois, Northbrook, Feb 19, 2021 (IssueWire.com) - Jay Sawyer, a huge sports fan from Northbrook thinks that when it comes to the best player in the history of basketball, Michael Jordan is one name that pops up in his mind. Jordan is the greatest scorer the league has ever seen. He won a record 10 scoring titles and had a career average of 30.1 point per game, the most in NBA history.

Jay Sawyer of Northbrook notes that Jordan led the Bulls to six NBA titles, and was named finals MVP all six times. When compared to LeBron James who some feel is the best basketball player ever, Jordan is superior in the scoring department. However, James grabs rebounds and dishes out assists at a higher rate. While both the players are known for tenacious defense on the wing, Sawyer feels that Jordan finished first in the league in steals thrice in his career.
